

A Curated Collection: Documentaries on Race Relations in America

Karla Roberts

We invite you to Movie Night: Confronting Culture within the Black American Experience.

In response to our departmental conversation around Civil Rights issues experienced by BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, People of Color), students have organized a film series that will kick off on Thursday February 25 at 6:30pm with the showing of The Uncomfortable Truth.

Please register in advance via this link:

This series will simulate a virtual watch party design using the streaming site Kanopy (free with Library Card). There will be a brief check-in at 6:30 and then students will watch the film in sync. At the close of the movie there will be a short break and then a 20-minute discussion on the film. This is intended as a safe, respectful learning environment where questions are encouraged in response to the film. If you are willing to engage in some thoughtful conversations around the history of race and Blackness, please consider adding our event to your busy schedule!

The Film Series will include the following films:

The Uncomfortable Truth – February 2/25

I Am Not Your Negro – March 3/11

13th – April 4/15

Whose Streets? – May 5/20

We encourage everyone to practice self-awareness & self-care. Some of these topics may be triggering and involve intense imagery. While we respect and trust the vision of the filmmakers and the information they disseminate, we want to encourage anyone experiencing triggering feelings to reach out to the Drexel Counseling Office. Thank you for your willingness to grow in knowledge, awareness, and love as we confront this challenging issue and time together.
